Perfect Partnership: Forensics and Radiology
– Daniel K. Brown, MD

SATURDAY, MARCH 12, 2016

7 a.m.   REGISTRATION
8 a.m.   Overview of Forensic Pathology & Forensic Radiology
         BREAK
9 a.m.   Radiology of Blunt Force Injuries; Child Abuse and Inflicted Trauma
         BREAK
10 a.m.  Radiology for Identification Purposes; Radiology in Non-violent Crimes
         LUNCH
12 p.m.  Radiographic Peculiarities; Radiology of Sharp Force Injuries
         BREAK
1:45 p.m. Radiology of Firearm Injuries; Virtual Autopsy
         3 p.m.   DISMISSAL

Dr. Brown is a forensic pathologist with S. Goldblatt Pathology Associates in Johnstown, Pennsylvania. Dr. Brown is a member of the National Association of Medical Examiners (NAME) and the American Academy of Forensic Sciences (AAFS). Dr. Brown is a lecturer and author. He has spoken to various groups around the country including Special Agent in-service training at the Federal Bureau of Investigation Academy in Quantico, Virginia, and the Arizona Public Defenders Association in Tempe, Arizona. Dr. Brown combines his experience in law enforcement, as a former Akron Police officer, with forensic medicine to present outstanding case studies illustrating the role radiology plays in forensics and in our criminal justice system.

Mammography: Keeping It Real
– Deborah Thames, RT(R)(M)(QM)

SUNDAY, MARCH 13, 2016

7 a.m.   REGISTRATION & CONTINENTAL BREAKFAST
8 a.m.   Breast Density: What's It All About?
9 a.m.   What's in Your Genes?
         BREAK
10:10 a.m. Positioning in the Real World
         BREAK
11:30 a.m. Expert Imaging Critique: You Be the Judge!
12:30 p.m. Digital Mammography Artifacts: Do You See What I See?
         1:30 p.m. Mammography: Skill or Luck

Thames is a mammography technologist at the M.D. Anderson Cancer Center in Houston, TX, where she is responsible for screening and diagnostic mammography, stereotactic core biopsies and digital mammography. With more than 15 years of mammography experience, she is also a consultant for mammography programs seeking ACR and MQSA accreditation.

Six Category A credits will be given for each day attended. Seminar is open to RTs and RNs. Cost for each day is $58; cost for Akron General and Cleveland Clinic employees is $30/day. Payment must accompany registration. Registration and payment must be received by Friday, March 4, 2016.

Register online or by mail: akrongeneral.org/radiologyseminar